

DELUGE OF ITALIAN SHELLS AND BULLETS ANNIHILATES CRACK AUSTRIAN BRIGADE

Terrible Slaughter is Recounted in Description of Sunday's Battle Along the Piave; Only Ninety Men of Command Left When the Remnant Surrenders; Maddened Enemy Make Futile Efforts to Escape.

AMERICAN TROOPS CARRY OUT BRILLIANT RAID

By Associated Press
AMERICAN LINES EXTENDED.
WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE,
June 26.—In an attack upon the German lines on the Marne front last night the American troops extended their lines northwest of Belleau wood. Up to 10 o'clock this morning 216 prisoners had been counted, together with a number of machine guns and other booty. Additional prisoners are coming in.

The Americans are now in possession of virtually all the valuable tactical positions in the Belleau wood sector. Most of the prisoners taken belong to the 347th German division.

On Sunday the Germans placed the crack 201st division opposite a portion of the American lines. Despite this the Americans went through in steam roller fashion.

The new sector held by American troops in Alsace is in the region northwest of Godwiller. This sector is not far from the famous Hartmannswinterkopf, the scene of so much hard fighting in the past.

ITALIAN ARMY HEADQUARTERS Tuesday June 25.—Under fire of Italian machine guns and artillery which were brought up rapidly the Austrian withdrawal across the Piave again became a disorderly rout.

It is estimated the Austrian losses total more than 200,000. It was a terrible sight as the maddened Austrians fled under the deluge of Italian bullets and shells. They leaped into the river and grabbed pieces of wood or anything that would aid them. They tied themselves to mules and horses out their efforts were in vain for as the enemy troops reached the opposite bank they were again caught by the fire of the Italian guns which had been trained accurately on the eastern bank for some days.

A single episode shows how and why the retreat started. On Saturday the Austrian command sent the 91st Schuetzen brigade, composed of Regiments 31 and 32, with orders to widen the Austrian breach at Lampold and to do this at all hazards. The brigade attempted to carry out the order and fought like wild men, but the Italian pressure was so terrible that they were unable to accomplish their object, which was to succor the Austrian divisions already surrounded in this section.

After six attacks which continued Saturday night and Sunday morning, there remained at 1 o'clock Monday afternoon only 90 men of this brigade. The others were either prisoners, wounded or dead. The commanding officer then committed suicide and the 90 surrendered.

AMERICANS IN BRILLIANT SORTIE

PARIS June 26.—American troops carried out a brilliant attack near Belleau wood last night, capturing 150 prisoners one of whom was a captain, according to the statement issued by the war office today. The French carried out a number of raids during the night capturing prisoners and machine guns.

BRITISH TAKE PRISONERS

LONDON June 26.—German prisoners and machine guns were taken by the British last night on the Picardy and Flanders battle fields, says the official statement from Field Marshal Haig today. On these two fronts the enemy artillery fire has been active.

AMERICANS CLEAR BELLEAU WOOD OF GERMANS

WASHINGTON June 26.—American troops on the Marne front again attacked the Germans last night in the Belleau wood sector. The Americans made an irresistible rush for the complete clearing of the woods in which it was discovered yesterday the Germans were still occupying a small strip of the underbrush.

KERENSKY IN LONDON ON WAY TO AMERICA

LONDON, June 26.—Alexander Kerensky, former provisional premier of Russia, has arrived in London. Kerensky is on his way to America.

SLAUGHTER EXCEEDS THAT ON WEST FRONT

ITALIAN HEADQUARTERS Monday June 25.—The Duke of Aosta's army, continued today, a day since along the Piave front, the Capo Sile region, cleaning the positions abandoned by the Austrians, and the abandoned war material buried the masses of dead and reorganizing the entire defense system in which has been badly cut up during the last ten days.

Men who are familiar with the Piave and other sectors in Flanders and the Piave state that nothing worse in the way of death destruction and confusion has ever been witnessed there, than in these Piave regions in northeastern Italy. The Piave river situation now is as it was before the Austrian offensive began on June 10 except that the Italian attacking progress in extending their bridgeheads at Capo Sile.

DELANO QUITTS RESERVIST BOARD TO ENTER ARMY

WASHINGTON June 26.—President Wilson has offered President Wilson's resignation as a member of the Federal Reserve Board to accept a commission in the army engineering corps to do railroad reconstruction and management work in France. The resignation has not been accepted.

You Can Help

TELEPHONE service is an important agency in the country's war program. The use and demands for telephone service have increased tremendously.

The great task which we, as a part of the National machinery, are shouldering is being carried forward successfully; but we may serve still more broadly if the public will co-operate in its use of telephone service as it is co-operating in the conservation of food and in the prevention of waste.

You will observe that the operator repeats the number. This is so you may correct her if she has misunderstood. If she repeats it correctly, please say "Yes" or "Right"; if incorrectly, tell her the correct number before she completes the connection.

Telephone users can prevent waste of time, service and telephone facilities generally if they will always make sure of the telephone number before calling and make sure that the operator has understood. Wrong number calls and the possible tie-up of telephone equipment over unnecessarily long periods will thus be avoided.

NEWS OF THE DAY AT MT. PLEASANT BRIEFLY RELATED

Call Comes for Two Volunteers for Auto Mechanics Branch.

MEN ARE QUICKLY SECURED

Mount Pleasant District Does Not Send Men in Draft Today. No Registration Having Been Made; War Savings Stamp Sales Total $123,000

Special to The Courier.

MOUNT PLEASANT, June 26.—No notice has been given to the local board, where special calls are made and there are no enrollments, compulsory inductions into this part of the service must be made. A call has come for two men for three months' training at Cambridge Springs, where there is a school located to teach auto mechanics, gunsmiths, carpenters, machinists and pattern makers. A few hours after the word had been received two volunteers, were at the armory. The two, who will leave on Monday morning, July 1, are Harry Holmes, Jr., and Ray Gelsthorpe. Gelsthorpe has a wife and family and was a fourth class man, but his wife waived all claim to exemption and he came forward to first class, making it so that he could go in this call. Ben Sullivan has been brought from Class 1 to Class 1 and is now an A-1 man. The board will send no men with this call. No reason was given, but the local board feels that the quota has been overdrawn.

A SAFE, EASY WAY TO CURE ULCERS

No matter how bad a sore or ulcer afflicts you, it is believed that HOKARA, the pure skin healer, will cure it, but if it doesn't cure, the purchase price will be refunded.

AN OPPORTUNITY FOR CONNELLSVILLE COKE OPERATORS.

The announcement that the W. J. Rainey interests have joined with a producer of iron and steel to construct and operate a by-product coke plant is significant. It marks a new departure on part of the producers of beehive coke as well as a new phase of the development of the by-product coke industry.

With the exception of a few merchant operations the by-product plants now in operation have been built by iron and steel manufacturers as a part of their plant equipment. Conneltsville coke operators have been without interest in these enterprises other than as producers of coal which they sold as raw material to be used in the manufacture of by-product coke. The new joint undertaking, in which a large independent manufacturer of beehive coke and owner of Conneltsville coal becomes the associate of a steel manufacturer in the production of by-product coke, is the first step in the direction of a closer union of the Conneltsville region with the by-product industry.

This is merely an adaptation to the conditions which are developing through the expansion and growth of the by-product industry and the transformation that is gradually taking place in the Conneltsville region. While there is certain to long remain a demand and market for beehive coke, and the Conneltsville region will still retain its pre-eminence as producer of the standard metallurgical fuel, from year to year the region will continue to undergo a change from a coke manufacturing center to a coal producing center. This is a process involving nothing more than suspending the operation of the beehive ovens and centering plant activities on the mining and shipping of coal. This can be affected without cost other than loss of investment in oven plants, many of which have already served their usefulness.

The evolution has been in progress for some time and has added to rather than detracted from the importance of the Conneltsville region as a fuel producing center. In fact, without the extensive mine development of the Conneltsville region the rapid growth in the by-product industry would not have been possible, such development having provided an immediately available source and ample quantity of raw material for new by-product plants as they were made ready for operation.

The steel producers who have become by-product coke producers early realized that Conneltsville coal sustains the same important relation to the manufacture of a high grade by-product coke, and rich by-product coke, that it does to the manufacture of high grade beehive coke. Through becoming a producer of by-product coal the region has merely changed in character but not in importance in its relation to the iron and steel industry. This fact insures the continued prosperity of the Conneltsville region and provides opportunity for the beehive coke producing interests to become interested, as the Rainey estate has done, in the enlarging activities of by-product coke production.

MORE THAN MERE ENTERTAINMENT.

The promptness with which the Conneltsville patrons of the Chautauqua took steps to insure the return of this form of summer entertainment and instruction next year, shows that this institution has become to be so much appreciated that it has won a permanent place in the life of the community. At the same time it has been demonstrated that its appearance during war time has not been out of place, but that it has had a stimulating effect upon the loyalty and patriotism of our people. The good attendance during very unseasonable weather proves that a want in the lives of the people has been wholesomely supplied while the patriotic note that has been dominant in the program has inspired the people to a better understanding of the problems of the war and their relations to its successful issue, and gained for them a broader view of their responsibilities and obligations. From the manner in which the Chautauqua has been patronized this season and the spirit which has been manifested, there is every indication that future calls upon our people for service and sacrifice, either as a community or as individuals, will be answered even more willingly and generously than have the calls already answered.

While there is reasonable objection to be made to the system under which the coming of the Chautauqua to a community is assured, and there prevails the sentiment that it should invite patronage on its own merits and not ask to be guaranteed a minimum ticket sale before booking a return date, we are confronted by the fact that it is also conducted as a business enterprise. If the people of one community are not sufficiently interested in this character of entertainment to arrange for its appearance, the management has but the alternative of accepting the offer of another and more wide awake community.

The arrangement made for the return of the Chautauqua next season is much to be preferred to that in effect during the past three years. Having the people generally pledge themselves to take the required number of tickets is better than asking a limited number of individuals to act as guarantors. This change in method is an indication that interest in the Chautauqua has become more widespread, its purposes more generally understood and its usefulness as an uplifting agency more fully recognized. Taken all in all, Conneltsville has benefited more by the Chautauqua this season than ever before. It has splendidly into the situation which has developed from our country's participation in the war, hence the people will remember it as more than a season of pleasing and profitable entertainment and instruction.

Never forget the investment features of War Savings Stamps. When you buy them you become a stockholder in the United States, the best corporation in the world.

Foreign Minister von Reuthmann who prates about the necessity for a certain degree of mutual confidence in each other's honesty and chivalry in a discussion of Germany's peace aims needs to come to an understanding of the fact that Germany's aims cut no figure in the situation. Berlin and the camp of Bill Kaiser are the aims of the Allies and they will be attained before there is a discussion of a peace settlement.

The Austrians don't seem to know where they're going, but they are on the way.

With Conneltsville and vicinity sending $2 additional drafts on the way and the shipyards preparing to launch $9 ships on the glorious Fourth, it is not likely to forget that Uncle Sam is in this job to a finish.

If your neighbor offers his life, surely you can loan your money. Save with the same readiness that your neighbor fights, and buy U. S. S. with your savings.

The Rubaiyat of Hooverism.

A chunk of war bread underneath the bough.
A dish of vegetable hash—and thou
Besides me grumbling in the wilderness were Hooverish snow.
We must abjure, Herb Hoover says,
the wheat.
Likewise the tender, appetizing meat,
And this and that and all things good, until
Lord, there's nothing left that's fit to eat!

I sometimes think that never is my
So fierce as when I go in search of chuck;
That when I'm hungry I can only
The sort of stuff that makes me want to duck.
But even as my little grouch I nurse
In this here now parable sort of verse,
I realize, but that don't make me glad,
It might be, oh, yes indeed, it might be worse.

Why a Mother Thanked God Her Daughter Was Dead

By Rev. Newell Dwight Hillis.

The bloodiest battle of 1917 was fought on the slopes of Vimy Ridge. That ridge was 1-2 miles long, and is shaped like a dog's hind leg. To hold the ridge the Germans constructed a vast system of trenches with barbed-wire barriers underneath the ridge. At a depth of 60 feet they made their prisoners dig a gallery 1-2 miles long, with rooms for the officers opening out on either side of the long passageways.

One morning last spring the Canadian troops started up the long sloping hillside under skies that rained cartridges, shell and gas bombs. Lying upon their faces they crawled up the hillside, cutting the wires as they crept forward. Then they plunged down into the trenches, while the Germans rushed down the long stairs into the underground chamber and plunged through the lower openings of their long gallery toward safety. Not until those Canadian officers led us into one of these German chambers did we understand the black tragedy. In that chamber the German officers had kept the captive French and Belgian girls. There was just time during the excitement of the fight to unlock the door, rush in and send a bullet through each young woman. A few minutes later the Canadian boys started through the long connecting chambers and siderooms.

In one of these rooms they found seven young women new dead or dying. Help came too late. An officer

CHANGED HABITS.

The tasks I used to like, alas, to me no longer make appeal; I do not care to mow the grass, with seven feet of flashing steel. The weeds are growing on my lawn, which once was handsome as a park; for I begin to talk at dawn of war, and keep it up till dark. The cockleburrs are growing dense where once the scarlet ramblers grew; daisy has marked my pocket fence, and all the other things in view. For I must talk with Northey Jones—what's what my leather junkie are for—explaining, in heroic tones, what we should do to win the war. I do not care to sweat the fleas, although that sweat once hit the spot, and early in the day I'd rise, with noble zeal, and sweat and sweat. Each fly in safety now may rove, and multiplies to beat the hand; I'm busy at the Blue Front store, where allied strategy is planned. There I'm considered sane and wise, and people harken to my rader; I have no time to sweat the fleas, which on the nation's substance feed. I do not care to boil the germs, although our lives may be at stake; for I must tell in ringing terms where Krupps' Wilhelm made his break. I used to read the bulletin the health board issued once a week, and I would stir my ancient shins, and make my slats and hinges creak; none better knew to wait the flies, or both the germs or bat the rats; but now I meet with scrybeard stuff, and we all gossip through our hats.

Just Folks

Edgar A. Guest.

HE HAS NOT GONE TO DIE.

He has not gone to die,
Though he may fall,
And far in Flanders lie,
He heard life call.
And knowing that it meant—
His strength to give
For Freedom, on he went
That he might live.

Death: There is no such thing
For honor's sons.
Who brave the thundering
And crash of guns
And in one mighty hour
Dare all for truth:
They snatch from Death's grim power
Eternal youth.

Not by some secret plan,
Nor space of time
Does life produce a man
Superb, sublime,
Not in three-score of years
Does manhood grow.
More than our gray-beard sere
Brave youth may know.

Only the coward dies:
Clinging to breath,
Fearing to strike or rise,
His is a living death.
Lest is his soul to truth,
Dead is the heart within,
Wasted his strength and youth,
Shame's grave has shut him in.

He went to live one hour
For truth and right;
To rise in manhood's power
And test his might
And if beneath that sky
He falls for truth,
His name shall never die:
Life guards his youth.

COULD WRITE VOLUMES SAYS INDIAN HEAD ROY.

"I could write you volumes on experiences that are out of the ordinary," says a letter from Edward R. Sparks of Indian Head, who is in France, to his aunt, Mrs. George H. Adams of Snydertown. "But of course the censor will not permit. But never mind; some day I will stroll into your town, and after I am on the outside of one of those old time meals of yours I will try and interest you for a while. The army and this war have taught me quite a few lessons. Our regiment and division are no longer green in the art of modern warfare. We have seen the Hun in about all of his forms and tricks of dirty warfare, and he has not got the best of us yet. I have been in the saddle all night for two nights straight and expect to be in tonight."

Sparks is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Sparks. He is in Battery E, Seventh Field Artillery. He has been in service 17 months. He enlisted at the outbreak of the war with a brother, Howard, who is also in the Field Artillery and in France.

Perfect Womanhood.
Perfect womanhood depends on perfect health. Beauty and a good disposition both vanish before pain and suffering. A great menace to a woman's happiness in life is the suffering that comes from some functional derangement, which soon develops headaches, backache, nervousness and "the blues." For such suffering, women find help in that famous old root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which for three generations has been restoring health to women of America.—Adv.

RAILROAD CAR STOOD ON END

UNUSUAL POSITION OF THE BAGGAGE CAR FOLLOWING A TRAIN WRECK IN NEW HAMPSHIRE.

In a train wreck near Claremont, N. H., in which several passenger cars were thrown down the embankment into a flooded-swollen river, the baggage car was left standing almost at right angles to the roadbed with one end high in the air. The car had started to slide into the river, but had stopped when about halfway down the embankment, with the result that it remained in this unusual position. The wreck was caused by a washout. Incident was so unusual that a photograph was taken.—Popular Mechanics

VICTIM OF "CUT-OFF"

RAILROAD'S LITTLE JOKE ON VISITOR TO LOANVILLE.

Although Mr. Cloop could not see it at the time, his good angel really engineered his happening for his good.

Of many pranks of railroad trains, few are more pleasant to contemplate than what is called the "cut-off." This joke is played by suburban trains, which suddenly uncouple a section of two or three cars at some obscure way station, and then proceed to their destination, snorting back jeers at the unarmored passengers.

The best example of this practical joke known to historians and critics of transportation humor is the case of John R. Cloop of Loanville-by-the-Lake.

Mr. Cloop was invited to attend a house-warming given by the Mortons, who had just built in Loanville. Mr. Cloop took the 5:24 from Jersey City, carrying a suit case containing his evening clothes and a box of candy, a large box of candy for all the female Mortons. He went through the gates of the train shed before the alert attendant could close them against him, and swung on to the last car in the train steamed out. Of the melancholy young migratory merchant who offered him mental and physical refreshment he purchased one of those cigars which the train crew manufactures in its leisure hours, and abandoned himself to reverie.

After three-quarters of an hour he started from his reverie with an amazement which was justifiable, for he had an idea that the smoking car, in which he was seated, was empty, save for himself; neither, he saw, were there any passengers in the car ahead. The conductor had some moments before whispered, "Passengers are waiting cars," but he had not heard, or hearing, had not heeded. Why should he not take advantage of his privacy to change into his evening clothes while on the train? He had heard that commuters did such things.

Mr. Cloop was a man of action. He reversed the back of a seat to make his shelter more secure, opened his suit case, and soon was proudly clad in his new mushroom-plaited tango shirt, immaculate collar with funny little tassels, and sensitive white necktie. Also he had assumed silk socks and shiny black pumps. It was admiring his reflection in the darkened window when a young and still kind-hearted conductor flung open the car door and shouted, "Awk! Awk! Forrd cars! These cars is cut off, young man!"

Mr. Cloop seized a light overcoat he had brought with him, and, donning it, he ran, reached the third car ahead in time to go on toward Loanville with the engine. But back in the village known to him only as "Awk," in the abandoned car reposed his suit case, his day clothes, and all his evening clothes, except those he had on, that is, shirt, collar and necktie.

He reached Loanville, was strangely silent as he rode in the Mortons' car to their bungalow, and refused to remove his overcoat when he entered their hospitable doors.

There was a conference with Mr. Morton, and Mr. Cloop was clothed after a fashion. But this practical joke of the railroad had, as was intended, its beneficial effect. It called Mr. Cloop's attention to the fact that Loanville was not a place to approach frivolously, occasionally, that it was a place to which one must go habitually if he would go conveniently.

So he married a female Morton and became a daily traveler.

HAVE TO KNOW MULE NATURE

Drivers of Patient Animals Realize They Have Peculiarities and Must Be Humored.

An old, red-bitten, hammer-headed, eye-necked bell mare, slowly picking her way across the central at the moment station at Camp Zachary Taylor, followed by a long string of mules walking in single file, heads down and ears wagging, served as illustration for an officer attached to the big cantonment who had just finished remarking that "horse nature and mule nature and human nature were mighty contrary things any way you take them."

"Now, take those mules," he said. "The education of a pack mule is a thing that must begin early. He has just two purposes in life."

"One is to carry 255 pounds day after day patiently and uncomplainingly, and the other is to follow the bell mare of the train, regardless of where that animal may go. Well, there is in that curial an illustration of the effectiveness of our training. The old mare has started after a drink of water and there goes every dad-blasted one of those fool mules after a drink of water."

Investigation revealed that the pack mule is not the only member of his family that has peculiarities that can be played upon or must be humored. It was learned that the larger mules, once trained up or paired, must thereafter be worked together if each is not to suffer a loss in efficiency. Two strange mules will not work together anything like so well in the beginning as they will a few weeks later, after they have become well acquainted, and then if they are parted the whole process must be gone over with again.

GOOD COOK TO BE ENVIED

Always Sure of Popularity Is the Person Who Can Concoct Dishes That Are Appetizing.

To prove that there is nothing intrinsically humble or shameful in cooking it is only necessary to mention a hunting or fishing party. The man who can turn out a palatable dish is envied and lauded. The college girl who can concoct midnight suppers or a can of frozen waffles or a gas jet is sure of popularity. Many of the great of the earth have practiced cooking as an accomplishment. Louis XV, one of the extreme connoisseurs in the art of living, relied himself on his coffee. One of the most famous of table sauces was invented by a gentleman of Worcestershire. Many great ladies of the olden times used to exchange recipes. Sir Kenelm Digby, an adventurous and scholarly soul, left a fat volume full of them, ranging from simple apple sauce to the most refined elaboration of game.

It is said even necessary that cooking should be the phase called "fancy" to be artistic. Above all, the sauce, that idol of the professional chef, should be dethroned from his bad eminence. The sauce is the mother of nightmares. The dish itself and not its accompaniments, is the thing. Cooking is real, cooking is earnest, and the gravy is not its goal.—Exchange.

Spruce Used in Airplanes.

Because the government needs all the spruce for airplanes, the piano manufacturers of the country are having a hard time to get sounding boards for their instruments. Spruce is the best wood the piano manufacturers can get for this purpose and they have used it in immense quantities for many years.

But sounding boards and airplane beams call for the same quality of stock—clear, straight-grained, tough-fibered and free from blemishes. In their desire to assist the government in airplane construction the piano manufacturers have agreed to curtail their output 30 per cent during the war. They can get along with the spruce stock now on hand for some time, they say. Meanwhile they will try to find a substitute for spruce. Several of the big spruce producing mills in the Grays Harbor district of Washington and along the Columbia river in Oregon that always have made a specialty of piano stock now are giving their attention to airplane material.

THE PARAMOUNT.

"BROADWAY SCANDAL"—A five-reel picture attraction, starring Carmel Myers, supported by Edwin August, Lou Chaney and other screen stars, is being shown today. The story has to do with Nenette Bisson, a young French girl, who is brought to a private sanatorium operated by David Kendall, his father. She has a bullet wound in the shoulder, and young Kendall, intoxicated falls to deny the police. Nenette becomes enamored of David, but he, believing that all French women are not to be taken seriously does not reciprocate her affection. When she falls recovered, Nenette returns to continue her dancing at her father's cafe. Young Kendall follows some time later and reaches the cafe just as Nenette has consented to become the wife of the man she does not love. The police trail her and she is arrested. The shame thus heaped upon her father causes him to drive her from his home. Nenette becomes a stage favorite and David, who has joined the United States medical corps, realizes while in the thick of the battle the valor and devotion of the French women. Edwin August is splendid in the role of David Kendall, a sis Miss Myers, who appears as Nenette. A selected comedy is included. Tomorrow, Kinky Gordon, supported by Irving Cummings, Frank Mayo and others will be featured in "The Irregular," a five-part World attraction of much interest.

OLYMPIAN THEATRE.

"THE HONOR OF HIS HOUSE"—Clever Sessue Hayakawa, Japanese star of "The Honor of His House," the Paramount picture, is one of the most capable emotional actors of the screen. In this picture he has a role that tests his powers to the utmost; that of a Japanese nobleman who loves a beautiful half-caste girl. She has another suitor in Robert Barlow, an American chemist. Tomorrow, Margarita Fischer is starred in "The Square Deal." The story is a keen analysis of that pseudo-bohemianism which parades as atmosphere and finds many votaries in the younger set of Americans. Coming Monday and Tuesday, Charlie Chaplin in "A Dog's Life."

A MISCELL.

Sir F. E. Smith told a queer story at a Washington luncheon.

"There are so many quones in England now," he said, "that one is apt to get mixed up."

"A young American soldier passed four hours in a very long queue the other day. His spirits were superb. He amused everybody with his quips and sallies. But he uttered a low cry of dismay when his turn at last came, and a girl thrust a small greasy packet in his hand, saying:

"No tea today, but here's a nice half-ounce of margarine."

"Well, I'll be jiggered!" said the American. "Is this or isn't it the gallery entrance to the Privy Council?"

Their Principal Use.
"Pop, what are eyes and noses for in legislative bodies?"
"With some of them, my child, they are first to scout jobs and then wink at them."

His Job.
"This new nurse who was a pupilist wants to know what a vital duty in the hospital you have for him."

"Let him attend to the incoming patients. He is just the man to put them to sleep."

He Knew Her.
Wife—You remember that second last cook we had; she got drunk, and the judge has given her thirty days.
Hub—Thirty days, eh? She won't stay half the time.

Heard from your boy lately?
"Yes. He's getting along very well in the army, but he complains that he hasn't been introduced to General Pershing yet."

GUNNER DEPEW

Albert N. Depew

EX-GUNNER AND CHIEF PETTY-OFFICER, U. S. NAVY
MEMBER OF THE FOREIGN LEGION OF FRANCE
CAPTAIN GUN TURRET, FRENCH BATTLESHIP CASSARD
WINNER OF THE CROIX DE GUERRE

CHAPTER I.

In the American Navy.
My father was a seaman, so, naturally, all my life I heard a great deal about ships and the sea. Even when I was a little boy, in Weston, Pa., I thought about them a whole lot and wanted to be a sailor—especially a sailor in the U. S. navy.

You might say I was brought up on the water.

When I was twelve years old I went to sea as cabin boy on the whaler Therius of Boston. She was an old square-rigged sailing ship, built more for work than for speed. We were out four months on my first cruise, and got knocked around a lot, especially in a storm on the Newfoundland Banks, where we lost our instruments, and had a hard time navigating the ship. Whaling crews work on shares and during the two years I was on the Therius my shares amounted to fourteen hundred dollars.

Then I shipped as first-class helmsman on the British turbine Southern down, a twin-screw steamer out of Liverpool. Many people are surprised that a fourteen-year-old boy should be helmsman on an ocean-going craft, but all over the world I will see young lads doing their trick at the wheel. I was on the Southern down two years and in that time visited most of the important ports of Europe. There is nothing like a tramp steamer if you want to see the world. The Southern down is the vessel that, in the fall of 1917, sighted a German U-boat rigged up like a sailing ship.

Although I liked visiting the foreign ports, I got tired of the Southern down after a while and at the end of a voyage which landed me in New York I decided to get into the United States navy. After laying around for a week or two I enlisted and was assigned to duty as a second-class fireman.

People have said they thought I was pretty small to be a fireman; they have the idea that firemen must be big men. Well, I am 5 feet 7½ inches in height, and when I was sixteen I was just as tall as I am now and weighed 168 pounds. I was a whole lot huskier than, too, for that was before my introduction to kultur in German prison camps, and life there is not exactly fatiguing—not exactly. I do not know why it is, but if you will notice the navy fireman—the lads with the red stripes around their left shoulders—you will find that almost all of them are small men. But they are a husky lot.

Now, in the navy, they always have a newcomer until he shows that he can take care of himself, and I got mine very soon after I went into Uncle Sam's service. I was washing my clothes in a bucket on the forecastle deck, and every garby (sailor) who came along would give me or the bucket a kick, and spill one or the both of us. Each time I would move to some other place, but I always seemed to be in somebody's way. Finally I saw a marine come. I was nowhere near him, but he landed out of his course to come up to me and gave the bucket a boot that sent it twenty feet away, at the same time landing me a clout on the ear that just about knocked me down. Now, I did not exactly know what a marine was, and this fellow had so many stripes on his sleeves that I thought he must be some sort of officer, so I just stood by. There was a gold stripe (commissioned officer) on the bridge and I knew that if anything was wrong he would cut in, so I kept looking up at him, but he stayed where he was, looking on, and never saying a word. And all the time the marine kept slamming me about and telling me to get the hell out of there.

Finally I said to myself, "I'll get this guy if it's the brig for a month." So I planted him one in the kidneys and another in the mouth, and he went clean up against the rail. But he came back at me strong, and we were at it for some time.

But when it was over the gold stripe came down from the bridge and shook hands with me!

After this they did not hate me much. This was the beginning of a certain reputation that I had in the navy for fist-work. Later on I had a reputation for swimming, too. That first day they began calling me "Chink," though I don't know why, and it has been my nickname in the navy ever since.

It is a curious thing, and I never could understand it, but garbies and marines never mix. The marines are good men and great fighters, aboard and ashore, but we garbies never have a word for them, nor they for us. On shore leave abroad we pal up with foreign garbies, even, but hardly ever with a marine. Of course they are with us strong in case we have a scrap with a liberty party off some foreign ship—they cannot keep out of a fight any more than we can—but after it is over they are on their way at once and we on ours.

There are lots of things like that in the navy that you cannot figure out the reason for, and I think it is because sailors change their ways so little. They do a great many things in the navy because the navy always has done them.

I kept strictly on the job as a fireman, but I wanted to get into the gun turrets. It was slow work for a long time. I had to serve as second-class fireman for four months, first-class for eight months and in the engine room as water-tender for a year.

Then, after serving on the U. S. S. Des Moines as a gun-loader, I was transferred to the Iowa and finally worked up to a gun-pointer. After a time I got my C. P. O. rating—chief petty officer, first-class gunner.

The various navies differ in many ways, but most of the differences would not be noticed by any one but a sailor. Every sailor has a great deal of respect for the Swedes and Norwegians and Danes; they are born sailors and are very daring, but, of course, their navies are small. The Germans were always known as clean sailors; that is, as in our navy and the British, their vessels were ship-shape all the time, and were run as sweet as a clock.

There is no use comparing the various navies as to which is best; some are better at one thing and some at another. The British navy, of course, is the largest, and nobody will deny that at most things they are tops—least of all themselves; they admit it. But there is one place where the navy of the United States has it all over every other navy on the seven seas, and that is gunnery. The American navy has the best gunners in the world. And do not let anybody tell you different.

CHAPTER II.

The War Breaks.

After serving four years and three months in the U. S. navy, I received an honorable discharge on April 14, 1914. I held the rank of chief petty officer, first-class gunner. It is not uncommon for garbies to lie around a while between enlistments—they like a vacation as much as anyone—and it was my intention to loaf for a few months before joining the navy again. After the war started, of course, I had heard more or less about the German atrocities in Belgium, and while I was greatly interested, I was doubtful at first as to the truth of the reports, for I knew how news gets changed in passing from mouth to mouth, and I never was much of a hand to believe things until I saw them, anyway. Another thing that caused me to be interested in the war was the fact that my mother was born in Alsace. Her maiden name, Dier-vieux, is well known in Alsace. I had often visited my grandmother in St. Nazaire, France, and knew the country. So with France at war, it was not strange that I should be even more interested than many other garbies.

As I have said, I did not take much stock in the first reports of the Hun's exhibition of kultur, because Fritz is known as a clean sailor, and I figured that no real sailor would ever get mixed up in such dirty work as they said there was in Belgium. I figured the soldiers were like the sailors. But I found out I was wrong about both.

One thing that opened my eyes a bit was the trouble my mother had in getting out of Hanover, where she was when the war started, and back to France. She always wore a little American flag and this both saved and endangered her. Without it, the Germans would have interned her as a Frenchwoman, and with it, she was sneered at and insulted time and again before she finally managed to get over the border. She died about two months after she reached St. Nazaire.

Moreover, I heard the fate of my older brother, who had made his home in France with my grandmother. He had gone to the front at the outbreak of the war with the infantry from St. Nazaire and had been killed two or three weeks afterwards. This made it a sort of personal matter.

But what put the finishing touches to me were the stories a wounded Canadian lieutenant told me some months later in New York. He had been there and he knew. You could not help believing him; you can all ways tell it when a man has been there and knows.

There was not much racket around New York, so I made up my mind all of a sudden to go over and get some for myself. Believe me, I got enough racket before I was through. Most of the really important things I have done have happened like that: I did them on the jump, you might say. Many other Americans wanted a look, too; there were five thousand Americans in the Canadian army at one time they say.

I would not claim that I went over there to save democracy, or anything like that. I never did like Germans, and I never met a Frenchman who was not kind to me, and what I heard about the way the Huns treated the Belgians made me sick. I used to get out of bed to go to an all-night picture show, I thought about it so much. But there was not much excitement about New York, and I figured the U. S. would not get into it for a while, anyway, so I just wanted to go over and see what it was like. That is why I went, I think.

There were five of us who went to Boston to ship for the other side: Sam Murray, Ed Brown, Tim Flynn, Mitchell and myself. Murray was an ex-garby—two hitch-hikes (enlistments), gun pointer rating, and about thirty-five years old. Brown was a Pennsylvania man about twenty-six years old, who had served two enlistments in the U. S. army and had quit with the rank of sergeant. Flynn and Mitchell were both ex-navy men. Mitchell was a noted boxer. Of the five of us, I am the only one who went in, got through and came out. Flynn and Brown never came back.

The five of us shipped on the steamship Virginian of the American-Flag line, under American flag and registry, but chartered by the French government. I signed on as water-tender—an engine room job—but the others were on deck—that is, seamen.

We left Boston for St. Nazaire with a cargo of ammunition, salt, beef, etc., and made the first trip without anything of interest happening. As we were trying to dock at St. Nazaire, I saw a German prisoner sitting on a pile of lumber. I thought probably he would be hungry, so I went down into the officers' mess and got two slices of bread with a thick piece of beefsteak between them and handed it to Fritz. He would not take it. At first I thought he was afraid to, but by using several languages and signs he managed to make me understand that he was not hungry—had too much to eat, in fact.

I used to think of this fellow occasionally when I was in a German prison camp, and a piece of moldy bread and a slice of salted beef was the generous portion of food they forced on me, with true German hospitality, once every forty-eight hours. I would not exactly have refused a beefsteak sandwich, I am afraid. But then I was not a heaven-born German. I was only a common American garby. He was full of kultur and grub; I was not full of anything.

There was a large prison camp at St. Nazaire, and at one time or another I saw all of it. Before the war it had been used as a barracks by the French army and consisted of well-made, comfortable two-story stone buildings, floored with concrete, with auxiliary barracks of logs. The German prisoners occupied the stone buildings, while the French guards were quartered in the log houses. Inside, the houses were divided into long rooms with whitewashed walls. There was a gymnasium for the prisoners, a canteen where they might buy most of the things you could buy anywhere else in the country, and a studio for the painters among the prisoners. Officers were separated from privates—which was a good thing for the privates—and were kept in houses surrounded by stockades. Officers and privates received the same treatment, however, and all were given exactly the same rations and equipment as the regular French army before it went to the front. Their food consisted of bread, soup, and wine, as wine is called almost everywhere in the world. In the morning they received half a loaf of Vienna bread and coffee. At noon they each had a large dish of thick soup, and at three in the afternoon more bread and a bottle of wine. The soup was more like a stew—very thick with meat and vegetables. At one of the officers' barracks there was a cook who had been chef in the largest hotel in Paris before the war.

All the prisoners were well clothed. Once a week, socks, underwear, soap, towels and blankets were issued to them, and every week the barracks and equipment were fumigated. They were given the best of medical attention.

Besides all this, they were allowed to work at their trades, if they had any. All the carpenters, cobblers, tailors and painters were kept busy, and some of them picked up more change there than they ever did in Germany, they told me. The musicians formed bands and played almost every night at restaurants and theaters in the town. Those who had no trade were allowed to work on the roads, parks, docks and at residences about the town.

Talk about dear old jail! You could not have driven the average prisoner away from there with a 14-inch gun. I used to think about them in Brandenburg, when our boys were rushing the sentries in the hope of being bought out of their misery.

While our cargo was being unloaded, I spent most of my time with my grandmother. I had heard still more about the cruelty of the Huns, and made up my mind to get into the service. Murray and Brown had already enlisted in the Foreign Legion, Brown being assigned to the infantry and Murray to the French mail-of-war Cassard. But when I spoke of my intention, my grandmother cried so much that I promised her I would not enlist—that, time, anyway—and made the return voyage in the Virginian. We were no sooner landed in Boston than back to St. Nazaire we went.

Darkness Above the Sky.
The projectile of the gun with which the Germans have been shelling Paris from a distance of seventy-five miles must rise in its trajectory to a height of twenty-four miles above the earth. The Scientific American says it is probable that at that height there is so little air that the sky loses its blue appearance, because there is hardly enough of it to produce the refraction of light which gives it its luminosity.

"If we could accompany this shell on its course," continues the Scientific American, "we should probably find the sky growing darker and darker, until it becomes nearly black. In the black sky the sun would show as a ball of fire, while the stars which were not obliterated by the sun's light would also be visible. Below us we should have the reflection of sunlight from the earth and from the denser strata of the atmosphere."

Can Sleep Anywhere.
A soldier who enlisted and was sent to Houston was sent out to the trenches for training, and while on duty he was granted two hours' rest. He was allowed to sleep on the firing step of the trench, which, he said, is nine inches wide. He said when he comes back he will be able to sleep out on the window sill.

WHERE WORKMANSHIP MAKES A VAST DIFFERENCE

When the home mechanic rebuilds a typewriter he reaches the stage of perfection from a mechanical standpoint for he realizes full well that the product of his labor will undoubtedly be put into service in his home community and he aims to give satisfaction. On the other hand, the mail order man has no conscientious scruples as to where his machine goes or the length of service it may give. The difference is that the home rebuilt typewriter and the out-of-town rebuilt machines reach the same commercial office and the product of the careless mail order man deteriorates quickly while the labors of the home mechanic gives service that wins him commendation and increased sales. It is just a question as to the merits of buying at home where one can see the make-up of his purchase or accept what is sent.

MORAL:—Buy of the man who aims to please rather than of the man who aims to cover up and deceive.

MILLION MEN OVERSEAS BY FIRST OF JULY

Seventy Per Cent Are Combatant Troops, War Secretary Says.

MILLION READY TO GO

Another Million in Training for Final Smash at the Prussian Military Organization; United States Occupies Six Sections of the Western Front.

WASHINGTON, June 26.—The first division of the American army landed in France one year ago today, 18 days after General Pershing reached French soil. In the 12 months that have since elapsed this division has grown to an army in size, and by July a million men, all told, will have been sent forward.

Behind the million, another 1,000,000 men are in camps and cantonments, equipped and eager to move, and behind these a third million will rapidly fill up the gaps left at home as the divisions sail for the front in an endless stream.

Secretary Baker estimated today that between 65 and 70 per cent of the men already shipped are combatant troops in the strictest sense of the word. The first division is now a fighting force of 550,000 men, backed by an organization of the supply and transport lines that it takes 250,000 men to make effective.

On this basis, it is clear that General Pershing now has under command the substance of the first auxiliary troops. So far as known, there has been no opportunity yet for the actual formation of this army as a military unit. The whole force has been in training, officers and men, but the day probably is not far distant when it will be possible for General Pershing to assemble his entire army, which will be a veteran fighting force.

American troops are now holding sectors of varying length in at least six places on the battle line.

MADE DRILL SERGEANT

Joe Gagliardi Training Men of 166th Aero Squadron in France.

Sergeant Joseph Gagliardi, of the 166th Aero Squadron, in training in England, writes to The Courier to ask if his subscription has run out. "If it is," he says, "I would like to have it continued as it is the only paper that has anything in about Western Pennsylvania. There are many Pennsylvania fellows in this squadron."

"I was made sergeant on February 19, and I am now acting drill sergeant of the 166th Aero Squadron. We are in training with the British squadrons and getting along fine. We have taken over one flight entirely, and seem to be doing very well. We have 10 machines in C. flight. It is composed of 10 fitters and 10 riggers. I am in charge of the riggers. We have had very few accidents and none serious, so I think we are doing good for a bunch of men that never worked about aeroplanes."

The full address of Sergeant Gagliardi is, 166th Aero Sqdn., care U. S. Air Service, 35 Eaton Place, London, S. W. 1, England.

Make Your Dollar Earn Twice What It Did, for It Buys Only Half As Much

THE purchasing power of a dollar has decreased. You know that, because day after day for the last year you have been getting less sugar, less meat, less flour, less of everything for the dollar you spend.

To offset the fact that your dollar buys so little today, you should place your money where it will earn 6% and be just as safe as if it were in a vault.

Years ago when the cost of living was less than one-half what it is today, 3% was considered a fair interest for money to earn, but today, when the necessities of life cost just about double what they used to cost, your money should earn twice as much interest.

You have worked hard for your money and you should make your money work hard for you.

The way to make your money work hard for you is to invest it in SAFE securities that pay 6%—first mortgage 6% bonds safeguarded under the Straus Plan—that banks, insurance companies and trustees of estates buy. The far-seeing investor does this.

First Mortgage 6% Bonds safeguarded under the Straus Plan are in every case a direct first mortgage on high-class income earning property—land and buildings—in the best districts of large and prosperous cities in the United States. They can be bought in amounts of $100, $500 and $1,000.

Write Today for This Book

"6% on Your Savings With Safety." It will tell you how to invest your money so that when you are old you will have an income to give you all the comforts and many of the luxuries that make life worth living. It will tell you all about the Straus Plan—how this house has safeguarded investments of hundreds of millions of dollars for 36 years without loss of a dollar of interest or principal to any client who purchased bonds from us.

BONDS SAFEGUARDED UNDER THE STRAUS PLAN do not contain one element of speculation. They are safe. They are strong-box securities to be put away and forgotten except to clip and cash the interest coupons twice a year.

Write today and ask for our book, "6% On Your Savings." No charge, no obligation on your part. You will gain much from reading it. Ask for Book No. MCSS6.
